A Jolly Afternoon.

Miss Rose Summerson entertained 34 of her little friends at her home on West Sixth street, Saturday afternoon, in honor of her 10th anniversary. She received many pretty presents. Refreshments were served, and all enjoyed themselves and wished her many more birthdays. Those who attended were: Edward Robinson, Grace Robinson, Dorothy Howard, Vera Welsh, Ella Hout, Charlotte Jessup, Scott Lingle, Ruth Lingle, Charles Hout, Doris Moore, John Beaton, Flossie Goss, Pansy Hout, Helen Normandy, Margaret Hout, Mildred Ensign, Grace Loucks, Mary Hout, Milton Leary, Marie Leary, Laura Hout, Cecelia Torney, Lois Cook, Louise Zwald, Elnora DeCoursey, Clara Hout, John Russel, Floyd Summerson, Walter Nellis, Anna Eckstein, Editha Craven, Regis Stahly, Eveline Carlson and Iva Carlson.

Class Social.

The Bible Class of the Emmanuel Episcopal Sunday school and the church choir, enjoyed a social time at the residence of Hon. and Mrs. Josiah Howard, last Friday evening. Mr. Coffinberg, who is in the employ of the U. S. Geological Survey at this place, was present and gave a very interesting talk on the Philippines. Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Whiting were presented with a set of silver tpoons. They were married about the middle of September. Mr. Whiting is in the employ of the Keystone Powder Company and is a member of Emmanuel Choir. He has made many friends during his short sojourn at this place. Mrs. Whiting is a very amiable young lady and is sure to win many friends in Emporium. Light refreshments were served. These socials will be held once every month, the next one being at the Parish House.

A Good Time.

Meadowdale Farm Rich Valley, was the scene of much merry-making on Friday evening, October 22, when Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Joyce entertained several young people from this place. The hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Joyce is well known and anyone being entertained by them is sure to have a good time, as was the case with this happy bunch. Those present were the Misses Edna Clark, Carolyn Cox, Flavia Lathrope, Helen Smutz, Margaret Dodson, Rena Jordan, Marion Judd, Gladys Lloyd, Mae Mulcahy, Messrs. Dick Kuehne, Clyde Fisher, Warner Judd, Eric Nystrom, George Balcom, Edwin Baldwin, George Barker, Gordan Vogt and Arthur Catlin.

Comedy Extravaganza Company.

The laughing event of the season the California Girls Big Musical Comedy Extravaganza Co., with its special scenery, five big vaudeville acts, eight funny comedians and a big chorus of beautiful singing and dancing girls will be the swellest thing seen in Emporium this season. A lot of catchy up-to-date musical numbers, "Come Down Malindy", "Down Where the Sweet Potatoes Grow", "The Girls of the U. S. A.," interspersed with the familiar tableaux "The Spirit of '76", illustrated, are some of the many good things to be seen only in this 20th century organization which will be at Emporium Opera House, Friday evening, Nov. 5th. Prices 25c, 35c, 50c and 75c.

Hallow'een Masquerade.

The newly organized U. F. S., held its first social function last Saturday evening, at the Parish House of the Emmanuel Episcopal Church. The party was a Hallow'een masquerade and many of the society appeared in costume. The evening was pleasantly spent in games, dancing and refreshments were served. The gypsie was there to tell fortunes and many indulged in this amusement. Taken as a whole, the evening was a most enjoyable one.

Gospel Worker's Training Class.

On Monday night of this week a Pastor's Training Class was organized in the First Methodist Episcopal Church. More than a half-hundred persons persent and joining. Instructions—oral, written and story. The class will continue to meet for six consecutive Monday nights. The course, though short, will be very helpful to those who attend. Other interested persons will find a cordial welcome. Instructions free to all. If you have not already done so, join next Monday nigh. Bring pencil and tablet. Time 7:30 o'clock.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

KENWORTHY.

EDWARD LESLIE KENWORTHY, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kenworthy, of Chapman Hill, near Sterling Run, Pa., died on Saturday evening, at 8:30 o'clock. His death was due to an accident which happened at Canoe Run on Saturday afternoon. The facts given to a PRESS reporter are as follows: The boy boarded train No. 68, which leaves Emporium at 3:11 p. m., and wishing to leave the train at Canoe Run was told to jump when they slowed down. In jumping from the train he struck the mail catcher, striking the back of his head. Sheriff J. W. Norris was on the train and ordered it stopped and went back and picked up the boy, carrying him to the store at Canoe Run. It was evident from the first that he could not live and he was brought to Emporium on train No. 61 arriving here at 6:30 p. m., and taken to the home of his uncle, Mr. Mark Ellis, West Fourth street. Drs. S. S. Smith and W. H. Bush were in attendance, but in spite of all they could do the little spark of life flickered out in a few hours. Deceased was born Feb. 17, 1898 and was therefore 11 years, eight months and 13 days of age. He is survived by his father, mother, three sisters and three brothers. The funeral took place last Tuesday afternoon and after short services at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Ellis, the latter being a sister of the boy's father, the remains were taken to Sterling Run, where services were conducted at the church at that place. Interment was made at Sterling Run. Rev. Mr. Shank, pastor of the Circuit, officiated. C. W. Rishell had charge of the funeral arrangements. The bereaved family have the sincere sympathy of the PRESS and a large circle of friends.

ALLEN.

The Wilcox correspondent of the Ridgway Daily Record, in last Thursday's issue, gives the following account of the funeral of Mrs. C. T. Allen, whose death occurred at Emporium: "Death has again deprived us of a dear and honored friend, Mrs. C. T. Allen, who passed away at the home of her son, Grant Allen, at Emporium, last Friday, Oct. 22nd, at midnight. Mrs. Allen has been ill a long time but she was so brave, patient and hopeful that we could not believe that she would not recover and once more occupy the home she loved so well, and greet us there in her pleasant, cheerful way. There are no words to estimate the loss, we, as a community, sustained. Her body was brought from Emporium on Mail Monday and taken to her late home, where funeral services were held for her at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, the Rev. Mr. Cooper officiating. The services were brief but beautiful. A few remarks by the minister, prayer, reading of selections from scripture and the singing of two hymns by the choir: "Lead Kindly Light" and "Asleep in Jesus," constituted the service. Interment was made in the Wilcox cemetery, where Mrs. Allen's husband and several children are buried. There were many friends assembled for the last sad rites, the L. O. T. M., of which Mrs. Allen was a charter member attending in a body. The most beautiful flowers surrounded the casket, gifts of friends who sincerely loved her. Mrs. Allen was a member of Presbyterian courch. She is survived by her son, Grant S. Allen, of Emporium, and a grand-son, John Jefferson Allen, of York, Pa."

FARRELL

In our last week's issue we called briefly attention to the death of Mr. James Farrell, in his 67th year. The burial of this industrious citizens took place at St. Mark's Catholic church, last Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. Before the remains were taken to the church scores of our citizens viewed the remains. The funeral was one of the largest ever held in this place, comfortably filling the large edifice, the great concourse of friends bearing testimony to the respect deceased was held, by all classes and all creeds. As the solemn cortege entered the church, preceeded by the flower bearers, Messrs. M. J. Dolan, Joseph Kinsler, John Hogan, John Heher, John Eddleman, Jno. Trepswether, all members of the C. M. B. A., and Ancient Order of Hibernians, followed by the remains and funeral director B. Egan, and the following casket bearers: Messrs. R. Seger, J. F. Parsons, Hon. F. X. Blumle, M. M. Larrabee, M. C. Tulis, James Kearnry, the scence was indeed solemnly grand—the choir softly singing in the choir loft, adding an additional solemnity to the sad occasion as the large circle of afflicted took their seats. The remarks of Father Downey rendered in his usual sympathetic and heart-to-heart manner, gave consolation and comfort to the grief-stricken wife, children and relatives. He bore testimony to the industry, honesty and faithfulness of the deceased to his church and family. It was one of those addresses that helped the bleeding hearts to look beyond and above for succor.

James Farrell was born in county Clare, Ireland; came to America when only a mere child about six years of age; located at Washington, D. C., and when a young man was present in Ford's Theatre when the lamented Lincoln was assassinated. We listened to his description of the terrible scene, with great interest. It was many times that we engaged in conversation during the very many years that we knew him. He was a practical railroad builder and bossed a construction crew on the Union Pacific R. R., from Omaha to San Faancisco, as well as helping [illegible] the P. & E. R. R., and W. N. Y. & P. R. R. He located in this county many years ago and married Miss Mary Calleran at this place, about 36 years ago—we remember well, as a boy, the incident. To this union were born Mrs. Anna L. Donovon, Emporium; John and Jas. engaged in business at Kane; Maurice at home; Mrs. Ellen Grady, DuBois; Mrs. Elizabeth Lippert, Kane; Mary, Jos. and Leo, at home. He also leaves in addition to his faithful wife, three sisters, viz: Mrs. Con. Creaton, Clermont; Mrs. Jas. Creaton, Bradford, and Mrs. Wm. Meagher, Buffalo.

In addition to the immediate family the following relatives and friends from out of town: James and John Farrell and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lippert, Mrs. Rose Ray, Mr. and Mrs. P. W. McHale, Frances Maher, Julia Dailey, Kane; James Grady, DuBois; Frances aud John McGloin, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Burke, James Hoey, Ridgway; Mr. and Mrs. John Burden, Mr. and Mrs. T. Tierney, Mrs. J. Creaton, Mrs. Rodger Welsh, Mrs. John Williams, Mrs. John Cashman, St. Marys; Mr. and Mrs. W. Meagher, Thomas, James and Joseph Creaton, John Powell and wife, J. C. Gallagher, Buffalo; Mrs. C. Creaton, Clermont; Mrs. James Creaton and son, Bradford; Mrs. John Cooney and son, Miss Mary Hayes and John Gilmartin, Renovo; Mr. and Mrs. James Hennigan, Elmer Hart, Eldred; W. Gilmartin, Johnsonburg; Hon. John McDonald, D. Donahue, Driftwood.

Deceased was a member of C. M. B. A., and carried an insurance of $2,000 in the former lodge.

A Pretty Home Wedding.

DRUM—COUNSIL.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at Sinnamahoning, on Wednesday morning, at eleven o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harvey Drum, when their only daughter, Miss Lola Gertrude became the bride of Mr. James David Counsil. Previous to the assembling of the bridal party, Miss Helen Council, sister of the groom, sang "O Promise Me", in a very pleasing manner. At the sound of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Mrs. Howard M. Council, the bridal party appeared in the following order: Rev. Robert M. Runyan, pastor of the M. E. Church, then followed the bridegroom and best man, Mr. Nace H. Drum, brother of the bride, Miss Helen Council acting as maid of honor was next, followed by the bride, leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. The beautiiul and impressive ring ceremony was used. The bride wore a gown of white silk, trimmed with baby Irish lace and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a gown of white over blue messalin trimmed with tan velvet and baby Irish lace. The bouquet of the maid of honor was white and pink carnations. The house was beautifully decorated with evergreens, ferns and flowers, carnations predominating. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful presents. The wedding party assembled in the prettily decorated dining room, where a wedding breakfast was served, covers being laid for fifty. The happy couple departed on the noon flyer for Philadelphia, Washington and other points east, where they will spend their honeymoon. The PRESS extends congratulations.

Guests from out of town were: Edward Counsil and family, Laquin, Pa.; Howard Counsil and wife, Lock Haven; Joe Counsil, St. Marys; Mrs. W. H. Metzger; Idamar; Max F. Balcom, Emporium; Miss Marian Towers, Driftwood.

THE STATE GIVES 161,685 PLURALITY

For State Treasurer and Auditor General—Supreme Court Judge Robt. Von Monschzisker Elected by 100-000.

The battle has practically closed and the G. O. P.' is taking a rest. While the contest was exceedingly hot in Philadelphia and several other sections, the people did not get interested and, as a result over 100,-000 failed to vote.

In this county only about one-third of the vote was out. The fact that the Democrats did not place a ticket in nomination made the vote light. The fight was made on Supreme Court Justice, but Munson was snowed under when Philadelphia's vote was given.

The Constitutional Amendments are possibly defeated in the state, but they may pull out when Philadelphia's vote is counted to-day.

The fight in Greater New York city resulted in the routing of Tammany, although they elected the Mayor. His hands are tied, all other offices in city and county being against him, thereby preventing Tammany handling the one billion dollars of appropriations.

Tom Johnson was defeated in Cleveland. Buffalo elected Democratic Mayor.

But the greatest victory of all was the utter routing of the Philadelphia fake reformers.

Junior's Hay Ride.

The members of the Junior Class of the Emporium High School enjoyed a hay ride to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Johnson, on Bryan Hill, last Saturday evening. This was a Hallow'een party and was a surprise to Miss Edna Johnson, who is a member of the class. The rooms were tastefully decorated, the only light being that of jack o'lanterns. A sumptuous repast was served. There was about twenty young people present and they did not arrive home until the "wee sma' hours."

Hair Dressing, Manicuring, Etc.

Having taken a thorough course in hair dressing, treating all disease, of the scalp, manicuring, pedicuring, etc., I am now ready to serve the public either at their residence or at the home of Herbert Day, on Woodland Avenue. Phone orders will receive immediate and prompt attention. I carry a full line of hair goods and toilet articles. Your patronage is solicited. Phone 7.

38-4t. MISS RACHEL DAY.

Second Anniversary.

The popular department store of Mr. R. Kuehne will celebrate their second anniversary, Nov. 5th and 6th, announcing in this issue of the PRESS in a half page ad. the great event. Upon this occasion this great store will give their customers handsome souvenirs, at the same time making a great display of dependable goods. In each department all goods will be marked in plain figures and the wonderful care displayed by Mr. Kuehne in purchasing his goods, making frequent visits to the centre of trade and personally making his purchases for this trade.

While Mr. Kuehne has only been a resident of Emporium for two years, he has made hosts of friends throughout the county by his square manner of dealing and elegant line of goods he offers his trade. Until his advent in Emporium the numerous requests of the ladies could not be met, but now the finest in the land can be secured right at home and at prices far below the great city houses.

Again, Mr. Kuehne has been the means of putting new life into trade here and being a liberal and judicious advertiser has taken the public into his confidence and dealt honestly and fairly. If other merchants would better themselves and take pattern from this enterprising firm they would soon realize what business means. The day has passed, never to return, when the merchant can draw trade unless they use a liberal amount of printers ink.

We hope every reader of the BRESS will call upon Mr. Kuehne upon this occasion of his anniversary and extend the right hand of fellowship.

Sewing Club Entertained.

Miss Lora McQuay entertained the Sewing Club at her home on Vine street, last Friday evening, in honor of her guest, Miss Rachel Brookbank, of Driftwood. Those present were the Misses Nina Bryan, Floss Taggart, Jessie Anderson, Maude Thomas, Encie Howard, Alice Montgomery and her guest, Miss Locker.

Final Institute Notes.

APPROPRIATE RESOLUTIONS UPON THE DEATH OF MISS LOIS MILLER.

WEDNESDAY, P. M.

The 43d annual session of Cameron County Teachers' Institute was opened with music, under the direction of Prof. Dobson, followed by roll call. The first period of the afternoon was occupied by Prof. Albert Clay, of the University of Pennsylvania, who spoke on the subject, "Recent Researches in the Bible Land." Prof. Clay gave a very interesting description of some of the countries in Bible times, including Assyria, Palestine and Egypt. A piano duet was rendered very effectively by the Misses Flavia Lathrope and Rena Jordan. Hon. R. B. Teitrick continued his talk on the subject, "Laws of Teaching." Prof. Dobson delighted the Institute by rendering a beautiful solo. Prof. Burnham occupied the next period in speaking on the "Battle of Gettysburg." He said, "In teaching battles in history, we should teach each battle in sufficient detail to understand the battle thoroughly." His talk was most interesting. Adjourned.

THURSDAY, A. M.

Institute was called to order at 9:00 o'clock, by Miss Collins. Devotional exercises were conducted by the Rev. J. M. Robertson, Rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church. A music drill was conducted by Prof. Dobson, followed by roll call. The first period was used by Mr. Teitrick, who spoke on the subject, "Effective Teaching." The teachers present gathered some useful information from the address. Prof. Price was the next speaker and took for his subject, "The Trio." By the trio he means the child, the parent and the teacher. The one great trouble with the pupil, teacher and parent is the fact that they do not understand each other. Prof. C. E. Plasterer, chairman of the committee on "Course of Reading," reported for the committee and recommended to the teachers, Barrett's Practical Pedagogy and two Manuals on the subject of "Insects and Flies." Intermission. After being called to order, Prof. Dodson lead in several musical selections. The last period of the morning was occupied by Prof. Burham, who spoke on the subject, "The Tools of the History Teacher,—the Map."

THURSDAY, P. M.

Called to order by Miss Collins, followed by music and roll call. During the first period, Prof. Price spoke on the subject, "Paul Lawrence Dunbar." His talk was very interesting. Hon. R. B. Teitrick followed Prof. Price and gave a very interesting and instructive address to the Directors of the county. This talk was followed by a recitation by Miss Mildred Lloyd, who rendered the same in a very creditable manner. Prof. Dobson favored the Institute with a vocal solo. Intermission, followed by music by the Institute.—Prof. Lynch, of St. Marys, was then introduced and made a short but very interesting address. Mr. Hughes was next introduced to the Institute and gave a very instructive address. Supt. Sweney, of Elk county, was introduced. He expressed his pleasure in being present and extended his congratulations to Miss Collins. Dr. Becht, of Clarion State Normal School, was then introduced and made a short address. Prof. Burnham occupied the last period of the afternoon in discussing the subject, "A Visit to Greece." For a period of forty-five minutes, Mr. Burnheld the audience in rapture with the figurative and eloquent language which he used in describing the beauties of nature, as well as many other accompanying circumstances of the voyage. Adjournment.

FRIDAY, A. M.

Institute called to order by Miss Collins, followed by devotional services. Prof. Dobson led the musical drill, which was followed by roll call. Hon. Mr. Teitrick was the first speaker and took as his subject, "The Right View of Teaching." Some good sound advise was given to the teachers. Dr. Becht was the next speaker and spoke on "Education." After an intermission, Prof. Price addressed the Institute on the subject, "Essentials." Prof. Burnham occupied the next period and took as his subject, "The Tools of the History Teacher—the Black Board."—After music, the report of the several committees were made. Committee on resolutions reported, Prof. R. H. Edgar, the chairman of the committee being absent, Mr. Joseph Harrington read the resolutions, which were accepted by the Institute without change. The committee on Educational Reunions reported, through Prof. D. B. Peterson. Some general business was then transacted and the Institute adjourned for the year.

RESOLUTIONS.

GENERAL.

Committee on Resolutions beg leave to submit the following report for your approval:

We, the Teachers of Cameron county, Penn'a, in Forty-Third Annual Institute assembled, feeling it highly incumbent upon ourselves to express, in some manner, our appreciation of the benefits here derived have

Resolved, That we express our thanks to our faithful and efficient County Superintendent, by whose self-sacrificing efforts such excellent instructors and entertainers have been provided.

Resolved, That to all Instructors, namely, Hon. R. B. Tietrick, Profs, Price, Burnham and Dobson, and Dr. Clay, we express our high appreciation for the valuable instruction received.

Resolved, That the thanks of the Institute be extended to Misses Brookbank, Jordan, Lathrope and Welsh for the instrumental selections rendered.

Resolved, That we thank the ministers of the town who have conducted the devotional exercises and those of our citizens who have shown their interest in our work by attending the sessions of our Institute.

Resolved, That we give thanks to the Baptist Church for the chairs loaned us for our evening entertainments.

Resolved, That we read the books adopted by the committee on Course of Reading, especially the one dealing with Practical Pedagogy.

Resolved, That we attend as often as possible the Educational Reunions of Cameron county.

Resolved, That we, as teachers, return to our schools with new aspirations and ambition to improve the schools of Cameron county and to rank them as far as possible to an ideal state of efficiency.

RESOLUTIONS ON THE DEATH OF MISS MILLER.

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God in His infinite wisdom to call from the midst of us one who for the past year has been a faithful and successful teacher in the Public Schools of this county, as well as a useful member of the church and society, be it

Resolved, That in the death of LOIS MILLER we lost one whose memory will always linger in the minds of her fellow-teachers.

Resolved, That we extend to the members of her family our heartfelt sympathy and the assurance that her life, by her noble and self-sacrificing example, shall not have lived in vain.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered on the minutes of the Institute and a copy thereof be sent to the family of the deceased.

RESULT OF SCIENTIFIC FARMING.

A forthcoming circular of the agricultural department will contradict the prevailing impression that the fertility of the country is wearing out, but will show that, notwithstanding the abandonment of farming districts in the northeast, not only is there an increase in the total volume of crops, but an actual growth in the average yield per acre under cultivation, says the Mobile Register. This result is obtained by restoring to the soil those elements and compounds needed and consumed by different crops. The well-informed farmer of the present day does not blindly send his plants out to grope for their food; but sees that it is supplied them in proper measure. Recent discoveries in bacteriology have greatly assisted the planter, enabling him to obtain bacteria, with which the growing plant may be inoculated and by which the nitrogen of the air is fixed in form available for plant food and fed to the plant as required. A few cents per acre spent inoculating the plants comes back to the farmer in increased yield of many dollars per acre.

Pennsylvania is doing well in forestry and in tree conservation. The state commissioner reports nearly 1,000,000 acres in the reserve, to which additions are being made, and has much to say about the effective system of replanting, cultivation and general safeguarding. Replanting is a very important part of the work. Many millions of young trees have been planted, and with the appropriation available it is hoped to add not less than 9,000,000 this year, while the ultimate number is expected to be 20,000,000 annually. An excellent institution is a state forestry academy, in which young men are trained for the forestry service. All this is indicative of active and intelligent supervision. Pennsylvania is a state of hills and valleys, and denuding the crests of trees has wrought incalculable mischief, a fair specimen of which is furnished by the freshets which so often sweep down the Ohio and other streams, carrying havoc for many miles.

Dislike of the cigarette has often been manifested by fathers, mothers and guardians, and sometimes figures in the disposition of legacies. Thus a young man named Acker, of Atlantic Highlands, N. J., has been left $25,000 by his grandfather on condition that for the next 24 years Acker shall refrain from indulging in cigarettes or participating in dissipation. To get the regular allowance under the will Acker must at stated periods make affidavit that he has complied strictly with the terms. That ought to be a pretty fair test of a young man's preference. The sum of $25,000 should be an acceptable offset to deprivation of cigarette smoking.

The plan, announced from Boston, of solving the problem of illiterate and impecunious immigrants by educating them and getting them into profitable employment is undoubtedly a good one, and would be effective if it could be executed, says the New York Tribune. But how such work is to be done for the scores and hundreds of thousands who come hither is another problem of appalling difficulty.

Roads like those proposed in England, on which there would be no speed limits for motorists; would settle the speed problem for good and all. Sensible persons would all use the other road, and the speed maniacs would soon bring themselves to their fit end.

The time-honored swindling schemes do not show much variety, but then they probably rely, with more or less certainty of profit, on the fact that there are no special novel changes in human nature.

Now is the time for gazing at the shelf-load of pickels, plums, peaches and other preserves and letting yourself think how good they will all taste this winter.

FOR AN EMERGENCY

PRESIDENT TAFT EXPLAINS POSITION ON INCOME TAX.

Declares Emphatically He Is Not in Favor of Its Imposition at Once, Though He Would Have States Indorse It.

In the light of extensive and widely varying speculation regarding the attitude of President Taft toward the income tax, it is gratifying to note that in his speech at Portland, Ore., he set forth his views with a directness which leaves no doubt as to where he stands. Following his discussion of the corporation tax, the president said:

"I am not in favor of levying an income tax such as that which was provided in the bill, in times of peace. I am not in favor of it because I think it will prove to be too inquisitorial as to individuals, and I think it will be found also that it puts a premium on perjury, so that the gentlemen whom you are especially after when you levy an income tax will escape, and only those which are too conscientious will pay more than their share. In times of dire need it is necessary that it (the government) should use such a tax, objectionable as it is in certain of its features, and, therefore, I hope it will pass the states."

The president's declaration must set at rest the allegations that he favors the imposition of an income tax at once, if the constitutionality of such a measure shall have been confirmed by the adoption by three-fourths of the states of the amendment submitted by the present congress.

The president's self-defined position does, however, raise a decidedly interesting question. If, as he hopes, the federal government is authorized to impose an income tax, how long will it be before it is compelled to do so? Mr. Taft believes the federal government should enjoy the right to impose such a tax in emergencies. On the other hand, he would regard the exercise of that right under normal conditions as bad because, as he explains, it would put a premium on perjury and would probably prove impossible of equitable assessment. And yet the strength of the advocacy of an income tax as a normal method of raising revnue was clearly demonstrated in the session of congress recently adjourned. So great was that strength that at one time a majority of the senate was committed to it and, while there were no figures available, the leaders clearly appreciated that if the house had an opportunity to vote on the question it would adopt the tax by a large majority. The actual adoption of the tax was prevented only by the influence which the president himself exerted to secure the enactment of the corporation tax as a substitute, a part of which influence consisted of the argument that to re-enact an income tax without the authority of a constitutional amendment would constitute an affront offered by the legislative to the judicial branch of the government. The adoption of the constitutional amendment would, of course, destroy the force of that argument and thus detract materially from the president's influence to prevent the imposition of an income tax, while the action of three-fourths of all the states in conferring on the federal government the power to impose such a tax would inevitably strengthen the position of those who favor it.

Progress in the Merit System.

When compulsory civil service reform laws were first introduced they needed to be guarded from abuses by certain strict provisions. In making examinations the test for appointments and in eliminating elasticity from the system, no one could say an ideal method of appointment was being established, but only that a great improvement was being made over old methods and that the very inelasticity was necessary in order to give the new system a fair start in the struggle for existence.

Now, after ten or fifteen or twenty years of experience, the time has come when the rigid barriers may to some extent be relaxed. The old spoilsmen enemies of the merit system naturally sneer at the change, but, nevertheless, what is happening is strictly logical and marks distinct advance. If it has become possible to facilitate the discharge of incompetent employes without too much red tape, that is one gain. If, as has just happened in New York state, a reduction in the weight given to formal examinations can be made all along the line and a corresponding increase made in the weight given to experience as judged by the appointing power that is another gain. At the start such provisions would have been sources of weakness, not of strength.

In New York state the development has gone to a point at which the civil service commissioners, instead of concealing information in a way still known to occur in some places, are giving it the largest publicity. At this year's state fair a large civil service exhibit is to be installed. It will contain statistics of positions and of past examinations, maps, charts, information pamphlets and everything possible toward acquainting young men who might consider entering the state's service with what steps they must take to that end. As providing an agency for "peopleizing" the civil service, the idea is not a bad one.

EFFECT OF TARIFF ON PRICES

Impossibility That Reduction of Duties Should Result in Immediate Price Reductions.

Tariff reformers need frequently to be reminded that the tariff is only one of many things that influence the prices of commodities. By harping too much upon the effect of duties as a tax on the consumer, they give rise to the expectation that a reduction of duties must be immediately followed by a reduction of price—an expectation very often disappointed.

There can be no doubt that the duty upon hides increased the cost of imported hides, and allowed a corresponding addition to the price of domestic hides. The removal of the duty was thus an advantage to the American tanner. Other things being equal, it would reduce the cost of American leather, and the import duty upon leather being also reduced, there is an enlarged opportunity for competition, which might be expected to reduce the price.

Thus far the reasoning is clear. But suppose the demand for leather to increase more rapidly than the production, and the demand for hides more rapidly than the supply. The price could not be raised as fast or as far as under the protection of high duties, but it does not follow that it would not be raised at all. If it is true, as is asserted and as appears probable, that the revival of all kinds of industry has created a greatly enlarged demand for leather in all forms, even beyond the general ratio of increase, it is evident that we have influences to consider to which the tariff can be only secondary.

The uses of leather have increased enormously of late years and in many fields. Even the automobile is said to have made an appreciable difference. People are wearing American shoes all over the world who never wore shoes before. It may safely be concluded that if the duties on hides and leather had not been reduced, all prices would have been raised to the highest possible figures. The "revision" has checked an artificial advance. It is also demonstrated that the reduced duties are more than adequate for all desirable protection.

Judge Gaynor's Pose.

Judge Gaynor, the Tammany candidate for mayor of New York, is conducting one of the freakiest campaigns in the whole history of queerstreak politics. He is the willing nominee of the Tammany organization, but continues to harangue against municipal corruption and to discourse in general upon the exceeding sinfulness of all the arts and methods by which Tammany has been accustomed to win elections and to thrive upon the boundless opportunitiesfo r graft that have followed the various winnings. He is the nominee of an organization that has made political crookedness a science, but continues to point with pride to "my life record and my life work for good government and to destroy low and corrupt government" without an apparent touch of embarrassment at the ridiculous pose in which he is placed. A candidate of Tammany hall preaching reform in politics is somewhat in the same classification of that notoriousin dividual who upon occasion and to subserve his own ends is supposed to rebuke sin.

The Tammany candidate has even made the spectacular play of sending back money which was forwarded to him for campaign purposes. Possibly that $1,000 check which a Brooklyn merchant sent directly to the judge through the mail was for the very purpose of giving him an opportunity to write a letter declaring "I have decided not to use a dollar in this election." Even in the primary which resulted in the nomination of Justice Gaynor, Tammany influences were accused by several of the New York dailies with having stuffed the ballotboxes to assure the election of certain convention delegates. And to think that the candidate of an organization that could resort to such methods is opposed to the using of a dollar to promote his candidacy! Gotham must be growing pretty solemn if it is not touched by the gayety of such a situation.

Taft's Antipodal Critics.

Taft is the type of statesman who incurs criticism from both the opposite extremes of opinion.

He is too conservative for the radicals, and too progressive for the ultraconservatives. He may be defined as a progressive conservative. He is the man who thinks hard before speaking; looks before leaping; and wants to be reasonably sure he is right before going ahead.

He is a reasonable man. He is capable of compromise—the essence, as Burke says, of statesmanship. He believes in progress, but he steers by settled principles; and he knows when to shorten sail.

It is because of such traits of temperament and training that the bulk of our people regard him as the ideal man for the presidency at the present time, when "slow speed ahead" is the needed word in legislation.

The business world, big business and little, employers and employed, breathed a sigh of relief when he was elected. The labor world felt that while there might under him be less vociferous lip service to the "square deal," there would be more of the real article all around. It had discovered that while threatening and alarming capital might be good fun for the gallery, it was death for work and wages.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

MILLIONAIRE SUICIDES

MYSTERY SURROUNDS THE ACT OF PITTSBURG MAN.

Suicide Goes to a Hotel, Writes Letter, Stands Before Mirror and Blows His Brains Out.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Pittsburg is struggling with one of the most sensational suicides in its history. Edward Steinhauser, member of one of the oldest families in Pittsburg, supposed to be worth more than $1,000,000 in his own name, killed himself in a most tragic manner at the American house here. It is intimated by some that Steinhauser had been plunging in the stock market.

Steinhauser, who was 38 years old, put his last thoughts on his mother, grandmother and sisters, whom he did not want thrown into a panic by having news of his suicide telephoned, nor did he wish them to see his mutilated body until it had been fixed up. He arranged for all this just before shooting himself. The North Side millionaire in the afternoon slipped into the American house and registered as "W. F. Lawrence, City." He asked to be shown a room and stipulated that the room be large, well lighted and clean. Asking that stationery be sent to his room he sat down and in a round, flowing business hand, wrote the following letter:

"Mr. W. S. Wilson, No. 925 Pen avenue, Pittsburg—Dear Billy: Break the news to the dear ones at home. Tillie and mamma are at Annie's for supper, but grandma is at home. I cannot help this. Forgive me, dear friends. I cannot rest until I am with George.—Ed.

"P. S.—Will: Don't 'phone home about this. You might startle them. You go to Annie's yourself and tell them. And, Will, have my body fixed up right before I am taken home. Let them remember me as I was. Goodby, old pal, goodby."

"Lawrence" then carefully removed his coat, vest and collar, and standing in front of the mirror blew out his brains. The shot and sound of the falling body brought help, and the locked doors were battered in and the still warm body found.

TRADE REVIVAL IS NO DREAM

New York City.—Bradstreets says: Trade as a whole is good or better, the former word, in fact, hardly sufficing to characterize the buoyancy and breadth of demand shown in many lines. Industry, in turn, responds with advices of full manufacturers' order books, full of overtime run and general reports of an insufficiency of skilled labor to meet the requirements. Altogether the situation is, all things considered, a very satisfactory one and the rate of improvement in the late months of the year promises to place 1909 close to the front in the list of years of prosperity.

While mild weather has tended to retard retail trade in some sections of the northwest, the general report is that the advance of the season and the marketing of the year's crops is bringing out a large volume of trade in the country districts, while enlarging payrolls, fall festivals and state fairs are all helping to stimulate distribution in the cities.

MANY VICTIMS OF WRECKS

Two Dead and Six More May Die as Result of Train Crashes in Two Different States.

Ft. Wayne, Ind.—In a collision between a westbound immigrant train and an eastbound freight train at Tocsin, on the Chicago & Erie railroad, 35 immigrants—men, women and children—were injured, some of them perhaps fatally. Samuel Barnes, fireman of the freight train, and six of the immigrants were taken to Huntington. Barnes and four of the foreigners probably will die.

Rochester, N. Y.—Two men killed, two seriously injured and one injured in a lesser degree, an engine practically demolished, the wall of the freight house caved in and dozens of freight cars with their contents damaged or completely wrecked, is the result of a wreck that occurred in the Kent street yards of the New York Central railroad. The train took a wrong switch and crashed into freight cars.

Twenty-two Miners Killed.

Barran, Wales.—Twenty-two miners were entombed in the wrecked shaft of the Rhymney Iron Co., follow an explosion when 48 of the crew were entering. Eighteen succeeded in fighting their way out, and a rescue party saved eight more. After hours of work rescuers succeeded in digging out of the choked mine shaft 11 bodies, including that of Mine Manager Bowen. When these corpses were recovered all hope for the survival of any of the 22 miners caught beneath the slide that followed the explosion was given up.

Husband Finds Wife Slain.

New York City.—The body of Mrs. Rose Banks, with her head almost severed, was found in her flat here. Her husband is under arrest. Banks and neighbors told the police that he had broken in the door and found his wife dead.

Korean Rioters Busy.

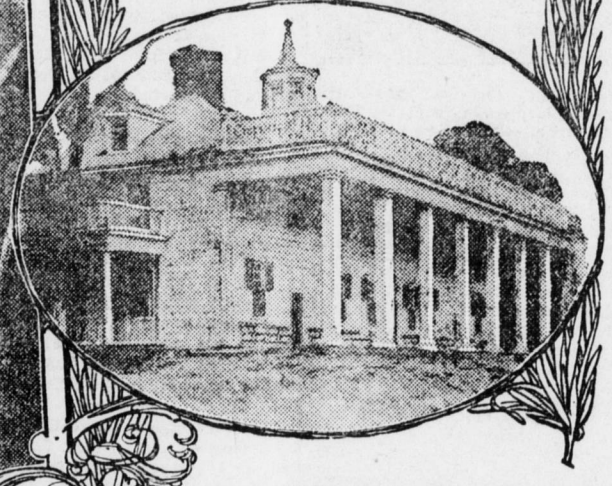
Seoul, Korea.—The union station here of the Seoul-Fusion railroad was attacked by 300 rioters and partially burned. The rioters were finally dispersed.

MOUNT VERNON
SHRINE of AMERICAN PATRIOTISM

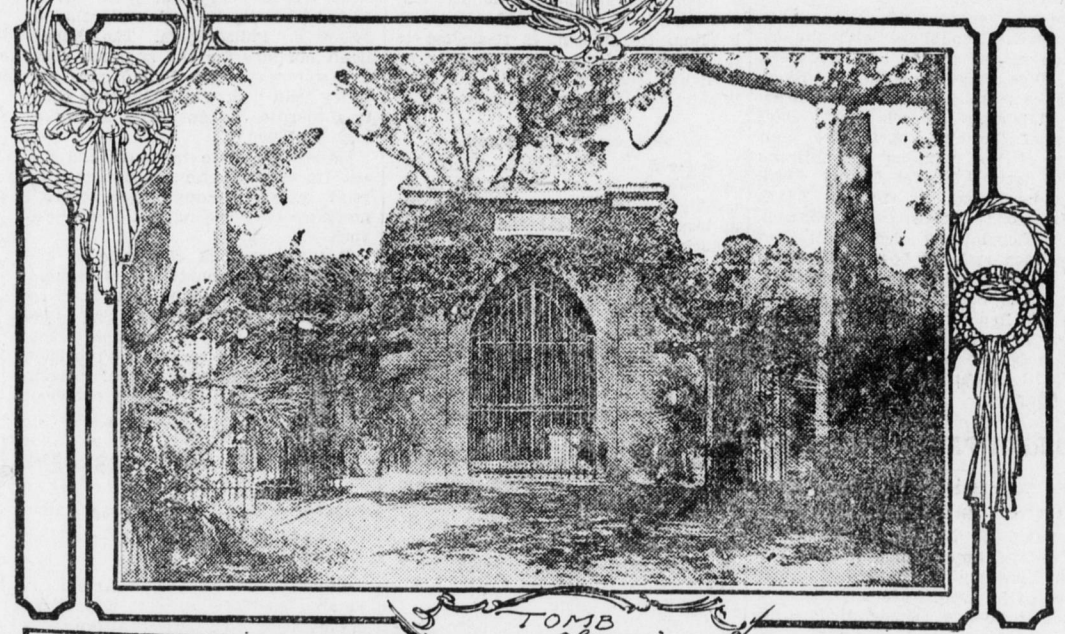
BY EDWARD B. CLARK

COPYRIGHT BY W. A. PATTERSON

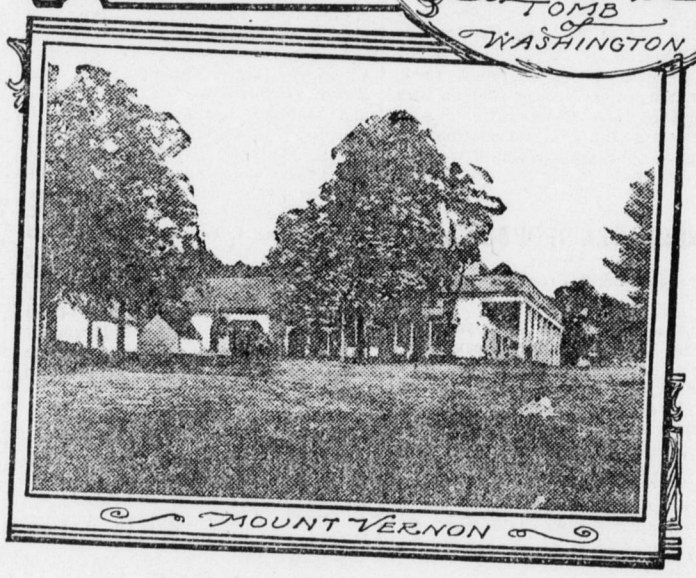
WASHINGTON AND HIS FAMILY



WASHINGTON'S HOME, MOUNT VERNON



TOMB of WASHINGTON



MOUNT VERNON

WASHINGTON.—In the novel of "Ivanhoe," Isaac the Jew tells the knight that he knows it is the custom of the Christians to put on pilgrims' garb and to walk barefooted for miles to worship dead men's bones. There is something of a sneer in Isaac's tone and Ivanhoe rebukes him with a truly heroic, "Blasphemer, cease!" I don't know how many thousands of Americans go yearly to Mount Vernon to pay a visit to the repository of a dead man's bones, but the number is something enormous.

If George Washington never had lived at Mount Vernon, never had visited there, never had died there, and had been buried in the antipodes there would be excuse enough for the visits to the place of seventy times seven the number of the pilgrims who go yearly down the Potomac to stand on the towering hill and to look off the valley.

It is with an utter shame that it is confessed that after four years' residence in Washington one man American born and with some lurking pride of patriotism in his make-up never until recently went to the place where the father of his country and the exponent of the American school teacher's ideal of truth lies buried.

Mount Vernon is the ultimate object of the voyage down the Potomac. There are other objects every paddle-wheel stroke of the way, for the hills on either side are hills of rare beauty crowned with trees that saw the revolution and that in the fall are wearing the raiment which belongs to the kings of the forest.

On the boat going down there was a young German gentleman, who had married an American wife. He was much more interested in the beauty of the Potomac's banks and in the history of the country beyond the banks and in the life history of George Washington than was she. The German asked his American wife if George Washington was born at Mount Vernon. She answered that he was; which he wasn't, not by many miles. He asked her many other questions, to each and every one of which, but with unerring inaccuracy, she made answers. This was a traveled American girl. There is a fairly well-grounded belief that she met and captivated her German husband while she was doing Europe in an automobile or was rhapsodizing on the Rhine.

Some day, perhaps—vedy likely, in fact—she will go back to her husband's land and will listen to his telling of his American trip, and in the enthusiasm of the nature which he made manifest on the Potomac he will tell the "historic truths" concerning George Washington which he learned from his American wife

It may be that some of the Germans who know something of the life of the American general who was the friend and fellow soldier of Steuben will come to think, as some Americans have come to think before this, that a little American history might be included in the course of study of the average American girl, and that not a dollar should be spent on her passage money to Europe until she knows without stopping to think whether it was George Washington or Abraham Lincoln who crossed the Delaware, and who, something later, forced the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown. This may seem to be a matter that is beside the mark, but, while the listener had none too thorough a knowledge of American history, there were some things said on the boat plying down the Potomac that if they had been said by an eighth-grade schoolboy ought to have brought him a flogging.

Mount Vernon has been written about by pretty nearly everybody who has seen the place. It hasn't fallen to the lot of everybody to see it in the fall. It is a noble place, a fitting resting ground for the first American.

It seldom falls to man's lot to see such heroic trees. There is a giant oak which stands sentinel over the first burial place of Washington. The body was removed from the base of the oak about 75 years ago. It never should have been removed.

It is said that Washington selected the place where his body now lies and left instructions that one day the change of sepulcher should be made. The oak which guarded the first grave must have been standing for three centuries. The view from the place is inspiring enough to enkindle the eyes of a dead man. The view from the new tomb is fine in its way, but it is as nothing to the grand sweep of river, hilltops and forests which moves before the eye from the place where Washington slept for 30 years.

Hundreds of visitors go to Mount Vernon daily. They peer into the tomb and then straightway go to the house. There is an interest, of course, which must attach to any of the belongings of Washington, but it seems to be a legitimate matter of regret that of the thousands who go to Mount Vernon the interest in the mirror which Washington used when he shaved and in the spoon with which he ate his porridge, if he ate porridge, is far greater than in the forest trees under which he walked and in the garden whose hedges of formal cut were planted with his own hand.

Indoors at Mount Vernon everything is dead; outdoors everything is alive. The forest and garden are instinct with Washington; the contents of the house are as dust.

There is a real interest, however, in the library of the old home. In the main the books are simply copies of those which were on the shelves in Washington's time. The originals, as I understand it, are in several libraries of the country. There are two originals, however, which are open at the title page, so that if the light be good, one may read Washington's name written in his own hand and the title of the book which he thought worthy enough to buy.

The light wasn't good on the afternoon in mind and all that one pilgrim could make out of a book's title, above which was written Washington's name, was the word "Sentimental." The wonder was, and the poor light was responsible for its remaining a wonder, if the father of his country had not in his quiet hours been reading "A Sentimental Journey." If the gentle Martha had peeped into the pages and had reproved George because of what she saw there one can imagine his ready answer that the book was written by a holy priest of her own chosen church.

The man with the megaphone on the Washington "rubberneck" wagons tells his audience of passengers as they roll by the Metropolitan club house: "This is the club of the nobs." In another minute, as the big sightseeing bus passes another clubhouse the megaphone man says: "And this is the club of the cranks."

"The club of the cranks," as this information howler calls it, is the Cosmos club, and a most interesting organization it is. Its membership is composed of scientists, some physicians and clergymen, a few lawyers and two or three newspaper men. The scientists are in the great majority.

It costs a pretty penny to join the Metropolitan club and to pay the dues and to live the life of the organization. The initiation fee at the Cosmos club is rather small, and the dues are light, but there are scores of members of the Metropolitan club, "the club of the nobs," who willingly would pay twice or thrice the Metropolitan's initiation fee and the Metropolitan's dues if the expenditure could gain them admission to the club where the "cranks" foregather.

Every Monday night is called "social night" at the Cosmos club. Of course the clubhouse is open at all times, but on Monday evening the members make a special effort to be present and there is always a large gathering in the great, sweeping rooms of the house where once lived Dolly Madison.

They don't intrude "shop" upon you in the Cosmos club. The members are a genial body of men and they have many guests from all parts of the world. They find out what the guest likes to talk about and then some one who knows the subject is promptly introduced to him. There are few world subjects upon which you cannot get an expert opinion in the Cosmos club.

The members, of course, have their hobbies and they ride them. In one corner of a room there will be an astronomical group, and there will be another corner with a fish group and another corner with a bird group and another corner with, it may be, a mushroom group. It isn't all science, however, in the Cosmos club. The members play billiards and pool and bridge, and they have a fine time of it generally and at no great expense, for it is one of the hard facts of earth that men devoted to science have little money. Learning doesn't bring high pay in the market.

Pennsylvania Happenings

The state Armory board at Harrisburg was called to meet on November 8 to consider a number of applicants for armories.

The rabbit season will open on November 1. Many inquiries about it are being made at the office of the game commission.

A court for the trial of state tax cases is being arranged for November 23. The attorney general's department will submit a number.

Very few violations of the game laws are being reported to the state authorities, even in regions where rabbits are abundant. The deer laws appear to be well observed.

Members of the state police are being congratulated upon the good work done in rounding up Carey Black, the Cumberland desperado. Black's captors had worked disguised as hunters.

The Gettysburg anniversary commission will proceed with its plans for the celebration in 1913. Governors of all of the states will be asked to attend. The next meeting will be held at Gettysburg.

Dairy and Food Commissioner James Foust was made a member of the board of directors of the American Dairy Union, a body which has been given full authority to manage the affairs of this big organization. The committee will meet in Washington during the month preceding the meeting of congress.

State Health Commissioner Dixon has been honored by election as one of the vice presidents of the Northwestern Tuberculosis association, an organization of Pennsylvanians and New Yorkers, for the maintenance of a sanatorium. Ex-Senator Emery is president and ex-Representative R. P. Habgood is a vice president.

Gov. Stuart recently announced the following reappointments: William A. Leisenring, Mauch Chunk, to be a member of the fisheries commission; J. C. McNeil, Pittsburg, and W. H. Ridge, Trevose, Bucks county, to be members of the state board of veterinary medical examiners; Dr. Charles B. Penrose, Philadelphia, and Arthur Chapman, Doylestown, to be members of the board of game commissioners.

Gov. Stuart has signed death warrants in the following cases: Staney Marcavich, Northumberland county, to be executed November 18; Fredinand Rossno, Lawrence county, to be executed December 2; John Chogwaske, Chester county, to be executed December 2. The governor also issued a respite in the case of Alfred Wnek, Philadelphia, staying the execution from October 28 until December 7.

A committee of citizens of Cambridge Springs appeared before Gov. Stuart recently in an effort to secure financial aid from the state to assist the people who had lost homes in the recent cyclone. The governor informed them that the state had no funds available for such purposes and that the act passed by the last legislature prohibiting payment of any state money except by specific appropriation, prevented advances being made.

Adjut. Gen. Stewart recently received nine sergeants of the United States army who had been assigned to the Pennsylvania state guard to assist in instruction of non-commissioned officers and privates. The sergeants will be distributed to various parts of the state to attend weekly drills and schools of non-commissioned officers. The men were chosen by the war department because of proficiency and their assignment to this state is part of the organized militia movement.

State Health Commissioner Dixon has approved the plans made for the boroughs of Tarentum and Brecken-ridge in the upper part of Allegheny county along the Allegheny river to join in the construction of a joint trunk sewer line and sewage disposal plant. These boroughs are the first in western Pennsylvania to unite in such an enterprise, it having been recommended by the state authorities because of economy and efficiency. Similar recommendations have been made for other towns in Allegheny county, notably Mt. Oliver and others, which it has been suggested join in order to save expense. The commissioner has approved some plans for sewers submitted by Washington borough, but suggests that a general sewer plan for the town be drawn up so that it may know in future what it is going to do in the way of building a general system.

State Game Commissioner Kalbfus says that few meadowlarks have been killed by gunners so far this season. It was feared that hunters would mistake them for quail. But one arrest on account of such shooting has been made.

Numerous arrests of eel fishers who have failed to make their boxes and nets conform to the law are being made through the state by wardens of the fisheries department. Most of them have been along the Susquehanna river.

For Lame Back

An aching back is instantly relieved by an application of Sloan's Liniment.

This liniment takes the place of massage and is better than sticky plasters. It penetrates—without rubbing—through the skin and muscular tissue right to the bone, quickens the blood, relieves congestion, and gives permanent as well as temporary relief.

Here's the Proof.

Mr. JAMES C. LEE, of 1100 9th St., S.E., Washington, D.C., writes: "Thirty years ago I fell from a scaffold and seriously injured my back. I suffered terribly at times; from the small of my back all around my stomach was just as if I had been beaten with a club. I used every plaster I could get with no relief. Sloan's Liniment took the pain right out, and I can now do as much ladder work as any man in the shop, thanks to

Sloan's Liniment

Mr. J. P. EVANS, of Mt. Airy, Ga., says: "After being afflicted for three years with rheumatism, I used Sloan's Liniment, and was cured sound and well, and am glad to say I haven't been troubled with rheumatism since. My leg was badly swollen from my hip to my knee. One-half a bottle took the pain and swelling out."

Sloan's Liniment has no equal as a remedy for Rheumatism, Neuralgia or any pain or stiffness in the muscles or joints.

A Public Benefit

Emporium People Greatly Interested in the Generous Offer of the Emporium Drug Co.

The people have already demonstrated that they would rather trust a man who is naturally honest than one who is honest only because he had to be.

The Emporium Drug Co., have a firmly established reputation for square dealing and sterling honesty. When they told the people that Rexall Remedies are the purest and most dependable medicines that it is possible for modern science to produce, and that they would tell the public what each one of these 300 or more remedies contained, and that they sold Rexall Remedies on their personal guarantee that they would give entire sstisfaction or they would not cost the user a single cent, they were believed.

Ever since this announcement the Emporium Drug Co., store has been largely patronized by people buying Rexall Remedies, all of which proves that this store has the confidence of the people and that honesty is the best policy.

There is no "cure-all" among the Rexall Remedies. There are different and separate medicines, each one devised for a certain human ailments or a class of ailments closely allied. For instance Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are recommended for the positive relief of stomach irritation, indigestion, flatulency and dyspepsia. They are rich in Bismuth-Subnitrate, Pepsin and Carminatives. They are prepared by special processes, which perfect and enhance the great medical value of these well-known medicinal agents. This remedy sells for 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00 per package. Every one suffering from stomach disorder should try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, inasmuch as they cost nothing if they do not satisfy.

Remember, The Emporium Drug Co., store is the only store in Emporium where these remedies may be obtained, and every one in need of medicine is urged to investigate and take advantage of the frank and generous manner in which they are sold.

What Would You Do?

In case of a burn or scald what would you do to relieve the pain? Such injuries are liable to occur in any family and eveyone should bo prepared for them. Chamberlain's Salve applied on a soft cloth will relieve the pain almost instantly, and unless the injury is a very severe one, will cause the parts to heal without leaving a scar. For sale by Geo. C. Taggart.

If you desire a clear complexion take Foley's Orino Laxative for constipation and liver trouble as it will stimulate these organs and thoroughly cleanse your system, which is what everyone needs in order to feel well. Sold by all druggists.

IN GREATER NEW YORK

Gaynor Is Elected Mayor by 75,000.

BANNARD'S GOOD FIGHT

Tammany Loses the Board of Estimate.

FUSIONISTS GET THE SHERIFF

Hagan Beaten by Schneider For County Clerk.

New York, Nov. 3.—William J. Gaynor has been elected mayor of Greater New York by a plurality approximating 75,000.

The indications are that he will be alone in his own particular kind of political glory in the board of estimate and apportionment, which spends the city's money.

In the next four years New York city will spend approximately a billion dollars. That money will be spent under the direction and by the votes of a board made up of a Tammany mayor, a Republican and Fusion president of the board of aldermen, a

JUDGE WILLIAM J. GAYNOR.

Republican and Fusion comptroller, possibly a Republican and Fusion president of the borough of Manhattan, Republican and Fusion presidents of the boroughs of Brooklyn, the Bronx and Queens and possibly a Republican and Fusion president of the borough of Richmond.

Tammany Loses County Offices.

But there is more to follow. It were a bitter pill for Tammany to swallow to lose the board of estimate and apportionment. But with that gone, there were visions of the fees in the sheriff's office had Christie Sullivan gotten votes enough. But Christie appears to have fallen outside the breastworks and another man of the Republican and Fusion stripe, named Shea, will administer the office of sheriff and apportion the fees.

Aside from taking care of the Sullivans by electing Christie, Tammany hoped to annex the district attorney's office when it put up a high-class man and an able lawyer in George Gordon Battle to run against former Judge Charles S. Whitman. But even the protection of the district attorney's office seems to have been denied the Tammany aggregation. The returns seem to indicate that Whitman has won.

And then there is the sad story of Jimmy Hagan, a Tammany man running for county clerk. Last Sunday night at Big Tim Sullivan's meeting in Miner's Bowery theater the Hon. James J. Hagan, in an impassioned piece of oratory, declared that all of the Tammany candidates were ordained of God. It appears that the Lord has forgotten his own, for the returns indicate that Hagan has been beaten by Schneider.

County Register Probably Fusion.

Even the county register, of whom it has been said that he could appoint more clerks than the secretary of the United States treasury, appears to have been lost to Tammany.

And way down at the tail end of ticket, Roesch, with a record that runs back to the disclosures of the Lexow investigating committee, whose friends in Tammany Hall insisted that he be nominated for city court judge, seems to have gone the way of the rest of the Tammany defeat.

Counters of ballots are still counting. From the far confines of Richmond to the further confines of the Bronx, late and sensational changes may change the ultimate result, but the appearance of the returns does not look that way.

And so it happened that Tammany Hall has a mayor which it does not like and who does not like it, and a board of estimate and apportionment which will spend the city's money without consulting the moguls of Fourteenth street.

DEMOCRATIC MAYOR

Buffalo and Erie County Otherwise Republican Except One Assessor and Chief Judge City Court.

Buffalo, Nov. 3.—An exciting political canvass in Buffalo and Erie county resulted in the election of Louis P. Fuhrmann, Dem., for mayor of Buffalo, over Jacob J. Siegrist, Rep., by a plurality of 1,242.

The rest of the city and county ticket went Republican with the exception of one of the two assessors, Betz, Dem., beating Walter L. Shepard by a plurality of 1,003, and Brennan defeating Daniels for chief judge of the city court. The pluralities of the winning Republicans ranged from 4,182 for County Clerk Price, re-elected, to 410 for Clark L. Hammond for corporation counsel.

The Republicans elected all four councilmen and the board will stand next year 8 Republicans and one Democrat. The board of aldermen will have 13 Republicans and 12 Democrats. There was no change in complexion of the board of supervisors and in the eight assembly districts of Erie county.

DIRECT PRIMARIES LOST

Fusion Candidate For Assembly Beaten Worse Than He Was a Year Ago.

Norwich, N. Y., Nov. 3.—Walter A. Shepardson, Rep., candidate for member of assembly, is elected in Chenango county by about 1,000 majority over Nelson P. Bouney, Democratic-Prohibition candidate. Fred L. Ames, Rep., elected county clerk; Harmon A. Walworth, Rep., sheriff, and the result on superintendent of poor is in doubt.

The fight made on member of assembly was a warm one, the Democrats and Prohibitionists fusing on a direct primary platform, the State Direct Primary league giving vigorous assistance. Bouney, the fusion candidate, was defeated a year ago by about 300.

ALBANY MAYOR REPUBLICAN

Democrats Had as Their Candidate George C. Hisgen, Brother of a Presidential Candidate.

Albany, Nov. 3.—Ex-Senator James B. McEwan, Rep., was elected mayor of Albany by 5,000. The other Republicans elected were: Comptroller, Howard N. Fuller; city treasurer, Otto Jantz; president of common council, Joseph W. Stevens; assessors, Alva L. Austin and Edward J. Flood; judge of the city court, Robert W. Scott. Lansing J. Platt was elected sheriff by 8,000 and Morse A. Granger, coroner.

The Democrats elected but three aldermen in Albany city and but five supervisors in the county. Supreme Court Justice Alden Chester is re-elected.

The Democrats in Albany city had as their candidate for mayor George C. Hisgen, a brother of Thomas L. Hisgen, who was Hearst's candidate for president. He did not run as well as a straight-out Democrat would have.

Utica Elects Democratic Mayor.

Utica, N. Y., Nov. 3.—The Democrats made practically a clean sweep in the election in this city. Mayor Thomas Wheeler, the Republican candidate, being defeated for re-election by Frederick Gillmore, at present the Democratic sheriff.

Others who were elected include Frederick G. Rensswig, Rep., comptroller; James Devereuz, Dem., city treasurer; Frank J. Baker, Rep., president of the common council, and Dwight Colegrove, Dem., special city judge. The Republicans elected their candidates on the county ticket.

Republican Mayor Defeated.

Oneida, N. Y., Nov. 3.—The Democrats carried practically everything in the election. Dr. Otto Pfaff, the Democratic mayoralty candidate, defeated Mayor Clark Frost, Republican, for re-election by 400 majority. The Republicans saved a few of the lesser city offices.

mary platform. Thomas H. O'Neil, Rep., elected mayor of Auburn over Democratic Mayor C. Augustus Koenig by 1,055. Koenig was running for second term. Entire Republican city and county ticket elected.

Pledged to Direct Primaries.

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 3.—Holden, Rep., elected assemblyman in Tompkins county. Pledged support to general direct primary proposition.

Watertown's Mayor Re-Elected.

Watertown, N. Y., Nov. 3.—Mayor Francis M. Hugo is re-elected, his plurality being 102; two years ago the city gave him 1,007.

Democratic Mayor Elected.

Kingston, N. Y., Nov. 3.—Roscoe Irwin, Dem., was elected mayor of this city, defeating Walter P. Crane, Rep., for re-election by 50 majority. Majority of aldermen elected are Democrats, also supervisors. Joseph M. Fowler, Rep., and Edwin Young, Rep., elected to assembly.

Democratic Mayor In Elmira.

Elmira, N. Y., Nov. 3. — Seymour Lowman re-elected assemblyman for Chemung. Daniel Sheehan, Dem., elected mayor and William G. Gill, Rep., elected recorder.

Chanler Elected to the Assembly.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Nov. 3.—Dutchess county elects Myron Smith, Rep., to the assembly in the First district and Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, Dem., to the assembly in the Second district.

Mayor Edgerton Re-Elected.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 3. — Mayor Hiram H. Edgerton and the entire Republican city, county and legislative ticket elected by increased pluralities.

Democratic Mayor In Binghamton.

Binghamton, N. Y., Nov. 3.—John J. Irving, Dem., is elected mayor, defeating Mayor Clarence M. Slauson, Rep., by 500. The balance of the Republican city ticket was elected. Harry C. Perkins, Republican, is re-elected to the assembly from Broome county by a slightly reduced majority, due to a light vote in the country districts.

Wadsworth Re-Elected.

Geneseo, N. Y., Nov. 3.—James W. Wadsworth, Jr., was re-elected to assembly by 280. Direct primaries not an issue to any extent, factional fights reducing his usual plurality.

Majority For Canal Proposition.

Watkins, N. Y., Nov. 3.—Schuyler county elects L. W. Argestsinger, Rep., to the assembly by 21 plurality on a very light vote. The canal proposition has a majority in the county. T. O. Coon, Dem., is elected sheriff by 200.

Four-Cornered Fight In Syracuse.

Syracuse, Nov. 3.—Former Assemblyman Edward Schenck was elected mayor in a four-cornered fight, receiving a plurality of 1,069. The vote was Schenck, Rep., 12,547; Driscoll, Dem., 11,478; Gore, Direct Primaries, 2,257; Griffin, Square Dealer, 2,224.

Justice George F. Lyon Re-Elected.

Binghamton, N. Y., Nov. 3. — Supreme Court Justice George F. Lyon, nominated for the second time on both Republican and Democratic tickets, was re-elected in this judicial district. The only opposing candidate was Erwin J. Baldwin of Elmira, Prohibitionist.

NEBRASKA REPUBLICAN

Mr. Bryan Comes From Minnesota to Lincoln to Vote.

Lincoln, Nov. 3.—A light vote was cast in Nebraska. Republican managers regard a light vote as constituting a menace to their ticket, but the returns received indicate no great defection from that cause. Comparisons are made with two years ago, when the Republicans elected their candidates for judge by 24,000. A great deal of scratching was done, and so far as indicated now the Republicans carried the state by a comfortable margin.

Mr. Bryan arrived in town from Minnesota yesterday afternoon in time to vote. He will remain home for several weeks. His interest in the returns was confined to those from New York and Cleveland.

Republican Mayor In Columbus.

Columbus, O., Nov. 3.—It is estimated that Marshall, the Republican candidate for mayor, was elected by 355.

EARLIEST ELECTION RETURNS

Sweeping Victory For Nationalists and Independents In Manila.

Manila, Nov. 3. — Manila has the distinction of announcing the first result of elections in American territory because of the 13 hours difference in time. The election here resulted in a sweeping victory for the Nationalists and the Independence party, who shut out the Conservatives and Progressistas.

There was little popular interest in the contest as the offices to be filled were minor ones and the machinery was in the hands of a few leaders. Ocampo, former delegate to congress, and Dr. Domidor Gomez, the labor agitor and anti-American, were elected members of the Filipino assembly from this district. The other elected officers were insignificant clerks in a municipal board.

The results of the election in the provinces will probably not be known for two weeks.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET

MUNSON'S REMARKABLE RUN

Democratic Nominee For Supreme Court Judge Swept County After County of Republican Territory, but Was Smothered by Big Republican Majorities In Philadelphia and Allegheny Counties—No. 7 of Constitutional Amendment Probably Beaten.

Philadelphia, Nov. 3.—Senator Penrose's Republican state ticket, like others that have gone before it, was accepted by a majority of the Pennsylvania voters. Jeremiah A. Stober of Lancaster will be the next state treasurer, Arthur E. Sisson of Erie the next auditor general, and Judge Robert Von Moschzisker of Philadelphia the next justice of the supreme court.

A feature of the election was the remarkable run made by C. Larue Munson of Lycoming county, the Democratic nominee for supreme court justice. Munson swept county after county of Republican territory in the interior of the state.

While returns on the supreme court judgeship may not be known with any degree of accuracy for a day or two, it can be taken as a fact that the heavy straight Republican vote in the big machine counties of Philadelphia and Allegheny has smothered Munson's county majorities.

When Berry, Democrat, won the state treasurership four years ago by 88,000 plurality he had a plurality of 34,000 in Philadelphia. The Republican nominee for the supreme court has a much larger Philadelphia majority than that, while Munson's county majorities do not seem to run as high as Berry's.

Stober for state treasurer and Sisson for auditor general are elected by good margins, though they received nowhere near the normal Republican vote.

Returns through the state on the ten proposed constitutional amendments are not complete, but it is regarded as pretty certain that they have carried with the possible exception of No. 7, which carries a provision allowing the appointment of election officers in cities. No. 7 was cut heavily everywhere.

ROTAN DEFEATS GIBBONEY

Regular Democratic Organization Joins With Republicans Against Independents.

Philadelphia, Nov. 3. —Samuel P. Rotan, candidate of the Republican organization for district attorney, is elected by a majority of 30,000 to 40,000 over his opponent, D. Clarence Gibboney. David Martin wins over Edwin O. Lewis for register of wills and Dobbins has defeated John J. Murphy, the workingman's candidate for city treasurer. Gibboney, Murphy, and Lewis were the nominees of the William Penn party, the name assumed by the Independent movement. The regular Democratic organization united with the Republican in the fight against the Independents. All of the strong organization wards gave heavily increased Republican majorities, while in the independent wards the strength of the William Penn candidates did not come up to ante-election estimates.

Whitlock's Third Term For Mayor.

Toledo, O., Nov. 3. — Brand Whitlock, the independent candidate, is leading Dave Davies, Republican, by at least 3,000 majority, assuring Whitlock the third term for mayor. The independents have carried the entire city ticket, with the possible exception of city solicitor, clerk of police court and the judge of the city court.

Union Labor Candidate Probably Wins

San Francisco, Nov. 3.—An unusually heavy vote was cast. It shows that all the parties got out their full strength. McCarthy, the Union Labor candidate for mayor, claims a victory. He drew from both the Democratic and Republican ranks.

Johnson Deefated In Cleveland.

Cleveland, Nov. 3. — Herman C. Baehr, Republican, claims his election for mayor over Tom L. Johnson by 5,000 and the Democrats concede Johnson's defeat by 2,500. It was in Democratic wards where the vote was very light that Baehr made his gains.

Pittsburg Bond Issue Carried.

Pittsburg, Nov. 3.—Everything Republican in Allegheny county. C. Larue Monson, Democratic nominee for supreme court justice, ran away ahead of regular ticket. Bond issue for $6,775,000 for city improvements was carried by a small majority.

Senator Smith's Partner Won.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 3. — P. J. Schoolfield, Rep., has defeated John T. Moore, Dem., for the state senate from Worcester county. Moore is the business partner of United States Senator Smith.

A Wonderful Discovery for Pimples.

It is surprising how quickly and easily pimples and black-heads can be cured with the following prescription, which was made known to the public a short time ago by a celebrated specialist on skin diseases, now retired, who used it in a long and successful practice with wonderful results. To use his own words: "There is nothing yet discovered that can compare with it for promptly removing pimples, eczema, black heads, blotches, red face and noses, and in fact any diseases of the skin; it also destroys the germ tha causes the disease and makes the cure permanent." Following is the prescription, which can be prepared at any reliable Drug Store at a small cost: Clearola one-half ounce, Ether one ounce, Alcohol seven ounces. Mix, shake well and apply to the parts affected night and morning, letting it remain on the face for ten or fifteen minutes then it can be wiped off. Do not use any soap, use instead a little oat meal tied up in a cheese cloth bag.

The writer on Monday visited "Fiddler's Green," where the first steps are being taken toward the cutting and marketing of the big tract of hemlock timber at the head of Potato Creek. Already the marks of civilization are beginning to show. The line of the railroad has been staked out and work on the big wholesale and retail store which will be conducted by Mr. Hull has been started. The ground is staked out and lumber being put on the ground. This building which is to be 50x100 feet, one story high, will be completed this fall. Mr. Hull informed us that probably a large boarding house would be built before winter and that early in the spring, many houses would be erected when operations start in earnest.—Smethport Miner.

"Bitten? Yes, by John Barleycorn!"

SYNOPSIS.

The story opens with the shipwreck of the steamer on which Miss Genevieve Leslie, an American heiress, Lord Winthrope, an Englishman, and Tom Blake, a brusque American, were passengers. The three were tossed upon an uninhabited island and were the only ones not drowned. Blake recovered from a drunken stupor. Blake, shunned on the boat, because of his roughness, became a hero as preserver of the helpless pair. The Englishman was suing for the hand of Miss Leslie. Blake started to swim back to the ship to recover what was left. Blake returned safely. Winthrope wasted his last match on a cigarette, for which he was scored by Blake. Their first meal was a dead fish. The trio started a ten mile hike for higher land. Thirst attacked them. Blake was compelled to carry Miss Leslie on account of weariness. He taunted Winthrope. They entered the jungle. That night was passed roosting high in a tree. The next morning they descended to the open again. All three constructed hats to shield themselves from the sun. They then feasted on cocoanuts, the only procurable food. Miss Leslie showed a liking for Blake, but detested his roughness. Led by Blake they established a home in some cliffs. Blake found a fresh water spring. Miss Leslie faced an unpleasant situation. They planned their campaign.

Blake and Miss Leslie turned to stare at the droves of animals moving about between them and the border of the tall grass. Miss Leslie was the first to speak. "They can't be cattle, Mr. Winthrope. There are some with stripes. I do believe they're zebras!"

"Get down!" commanded Blake. "They're all wild game. Those big ox-like fellows to the left of the zebras are eland. Whee! wouldn't we be in it if we owned that water hole? I'll bet I'd have one of those fat beeves inside three days."

"How I should enjoy a juicy steak!" murmured Miss Leslie.

"Raw or jerked?" questioned Blake.

"What is 'jerked?'"

"Dried."

"Oh, no; I mean broiled—just red inside."

"I prefer mine quite rare," added Winthrope.

"That's the way you'll get it, damned rare—Beg your pardon, Miss Jenny! Without fire, we'll have the choice of raw or jerked."

"Horrors!"

"Jerked meat is all right. You cut your game in strips—"

"With a penknife!" laughed Miss Leslie.

Blake stared at her glumly. "That's so. You've got it back on me—Butcher a beef with a penknife! We'll have to take it raw, and dog-fashion at that."

"Haven't I heard of bamboo knives?" said Winthrope.

"Bamboo?"

"Im sure I can't say, but as I remember, it seems to me that the varnish-like glaze—"

"Silica? Say, that would cut meat. But where in—where in hades are the bamboos?"

"I'm sure I can't say. Only I remember that I have seen them in other tropical places, you know."

"Meantime I prefer cocoanuts, until we have a fire to broil our steaks," remarked Miss Leslie.

"Ditto, Miss Jenny, long's we have the nuts and no meat. I'm a vegetarian now—but maybe my mouth ain't watering for something else. Look at all those chops and roasts and stews running around out there!"

"They are making for the grass," observed Winthrope. "Hadn't we better start?"

"Nuts won't weigh so much without the shells. We'll eat right here."

There were only a few nuts left. They were drained and cracked and scooped out, one after another. The last chanced to break evenly across the middle.

"Hello," said Blake, "the lower part of this will do for a bowl, Miss Jenny. When you've eaten the cream, put it in your pocket. Say, Win, have you got the bottle and keys and—"

"All safe—everything."

"Are you sure, Mr. Winthrope?" asked Miss Leslie. "Men's pockets seem so open. Twice I've had to pick up Mr. Blake's locket."

"Locket?" echoed Blake.

"The ivory locket. Women may be curious, Mr. Blake, but I assure you, I did not look inside, though—"

"Let me—give it here—quick!" gasped Blake.

Startled by his tone and look, Miss Leslie caught an oval shaped object from the side pocket of the coat, and thrust it into Blake's outstretched hand. For a moment he stared at it, unable to believe his eyes; then he leaped up, with a yell that sent the droves of zebras and antelope flying into the tall grass.

"Oh! oh!" screamed Miss Leslie. "Is it a snake? Are you bitten?"

"Bitten?—Yes, by John Barleycorn! Must have been fuzzy drunk to put it in my coat. Always carry it in my fob pocket. What a blasted infernal idiot I've been! Kick me, Win,—kick me hard!"

"I say, Blake, what is it? I don't quite take you. If you would only—"

"Fire!—fire! Can't you see? We've got all hell beat! Look here."

He snapped open the slide of the supposed locket, and before either of his companions could realize what he would be about, was focusing the lens of a surveyor's magnifying-glass upon the back of Winthrope's hand. The Englishman jerked the hand away—

"Ow! That burns!"

Blake shook the glass in their bewildered faces.

"Look there!" he shouted, "there's fire; there's water; there's birds' eggs and beefsteaks! Here's where we trek on the back trail. We'll smoke out that leopard in short order!"

"You don't mean to say, Blake—"

"No; I mean to do! Don't worry. You can hide with Miss Jenny on the point, while I engineer the deal. Fall in."

The day was still fresh when they found themselves back at the foot of the cliff. Here arose a heated debate between the men. Winthrope, stung by Blake's jeering words, insisted upon sharing the attack, though with no great enthusiasm. Much to Blake's surprise, Miss Leslie came to the support of the Englishman.

"But, Mr. Blake," she argued, "you say it will be perfectly safe for us here. If so, it will be safe for myself alone."

"I can play this game without him."

"No doubt. Yet if, as you say, you expect to keep off the leopard with a torch, would it not be well to have Mr. Winthrope at hand with other torches, should yours burn out?"

"Yes; if I thought he'd be at hand after the first scare."

Winthrope started off almost on a run. At that moment he might have faced the leopard single-handed. Blake chuckled as he swung away after his victim. Within ten paces, however, he paused to call back over his shoulder: "Get around the point, Miss Jenny, and if you want something to do, try braiding the cocoanut fiber."

Miss Leslie made no response; but she stood for some time gazing after the two men. There was so much that was characteristic even in this rear view. For all his anger and his haste, the Englishman bore himself with an air of well-bred nicety. His trim, erect figure needed only a fresh suit to be irreproachable. On the other hand, a careless observer, at first glance, might have mistaken Blake, with his flannel shirt and shouldered club, for a hulking navvy. But there was nothing of the navvy in his swinging stride or in the resolute poise of his head as he came up with Winthrope.

Though the girl was not given to reflection, the contrast between the two could not but impress her. How well her countryman—coarse, uncultured, but full of brute strength and courage—fitted in with these primitive surroundings. Whereas Winthrope—and herself—

She fell into a kind of disquieted brown study. Her eyes had an odd look, both startled and meditative—such a look as might be expected of one who for the first time is peering beneath the surface of things, and sees the naked Realities of Life, the real values, bared of masking conventions. It may have been that she was seeking to ponder the meaning of her own existence—that she had caught a glimpse of the vanity and wastefulness, the utter futility of her life. At the best, it could only have been a glimpse. But was not that enough?

"Of what use are such people as I?" she cried. "That man may be rough and coarse—even a brute; but he at least does things—I'll show him that I can do things, too!"

She hastened out around the corner of the cliff to the spot where they had spent the night. Here she gathered together the cocoanut husks, and seating herself in the shade of the overhanging ledges began to pick at the coarse fiber. It was cruel work for her soft fingers, not yet fully healed from the thorn wounds. At times the pain and an overpowering sense of injury brought tears to her eyes; still more often she dropped the work in despair of her awkwardness. Yet always she returned to the task with renewed energy.

After no little perseverance, she found how to twist the fiber and plait it into cord. At best it was slow work, and she did not see how she should ever make enough cord for a fish-line. Yet, as she caught the knack of the work and her fingers became more nimble she began to enjoy the novel pleasure of producing something.

She had quite forgotten to feel injured, and was learning to endure with patience the rasping of the fiber between her fingers, when Winthrope came clambering around the corner of the cliff.

"What is it?" she exclaimed, springing up and hurrying to meet him. He was white and quivering, and the look in his eyes filled her with dread.

Her voice shrilled to a scream: "He's dead!"

Winthrope shook his head.

"Then he's hurt!—he's hurt by that savage creature, and you've run off and left him—"

"No, no, Miss Genevieve, I must insist! The fellow is not even scratched."

"Then why—?"

"It was the horror of it all. It actually made me ill."

"You frightened me almost to death. Did the beast chase you?"

"That would have been better, in a way. Really, it was horrible! I'm still sick over it, Miss Genevieve."

"But tell me about it. Did you set fire to the bushes in the cleft, as Mr. Blake—"

"Yes; after we had fetched what we could carry of that long grass—two big trusses. It grows 10 or 12 feet tall, and is now quite dry. Part of it Blake made into torches, and we fired the bush all across the foot of the cleft. Really, one would not have thought there was that much dry wood in so green a dell. On either side of the rill the grass and brush flared like tinder, and the flames swept up the cleft far quicker than we had expected. We could hear them crackling and roaring louder than ever after the smoke shut out our view."

"Surely, there is nothing so very horrible in that."

"No, oh, no; it was not that. But the beast—the leopard! At first we heard one roar; then it was that dreadful snarling and yelling—most awful squalling! The wretched thing came leaping and tumbling down the path, all singed and blinded. Blake fired the big truss of grass, and the brute rolled right into the flames. It was shocking—dreadfully shocking! The wretched creature writhed and leaped about till it plunged into the pool. When it sought to crawl out, all black and hideous, Blake went up and killed it with his club—crushed in its skull— Ugh!"

Miss Leslie gazed at the unnerved Englishman with calm scrutiny.

"But why should you feel so about it?" she asked. "Was it not the beast's life against ours?"

"But so horrible a death!"

"I'm sure Mr. Blake would have preferred to shoot the creature had he a gun. Having nothing else than fire, I think it was all very brave of him. Now we are sure of water and food. Had we not best be going?"

"It was to fetch you that Blake sent me."

Winthrope spoke with perceptible stiffness. He was chagrined, not only by her commendation of Blake, but by the indifference with which she had met his agitation.

They started at once, Miss Leslie in the lead. As they rounded the point she caught sight of the smoke still rising from the cleft. A little later she noticed the vultures which were streaming down out of the sky from all quarters other than seaward. Their focal point seemed to be the trees at the foot of the cleft. A nearer view showed that they were alighting in the thorn bushes on the south border of the wood.

Of Blake there was nothing to be seen until Miss Leslie, still in the lead, pushed in among the trees. There they found him crouched beside a small fire, near the edge of the pool. He did not look up. His eyes were riveted in a hungry stare upon several pieces of flesh, suspended over the flames on spits of green twigs.

"Hello!" he sang out, as he heard their footsteps. "Just in time, Miss Jenny. Your broiled steak'll be ready in short order."

"Oh, build up the fire! 'I'm simply ravenous!" she exclaimed, between impatience and delight.

Winthrope was hardly less keen; yet his hunger did not altogether blunt his curiosity.

"I say, Blake," he inquired, "where did you get the meat?"

"Stow it, Win, my boy. This ain't a packing house. The stuff may be tough, but it's not—er—the other thing. Here you are, Miss Jenny. Chew it off the stick."

Though Winthrope had his suspicions, he took the piece of half-burned flesh which Blake handed him in turn and fell to eating without further question. As Blake had surmised, the roast proved far other than tender. Hunger, however, lent it a most appetizing flavor. The repast ended when there was nothing left to devour. Blake threw away his empty spit and rose to stretch. He waited for Miss Leslie to swallow her last mouthful and then began to chuckle.

"What's the joke?" asked Winthrope.

Blake looked at him solemnly.

"Well now, that was downright mean of me," he drawled; "after robbing them, to laugh at it!"

"Robbing who?"

"The buzzards."

"You've fed us on leopard meat! It's—it's disgusting!"

"I found it filling. How about you, Miss Jenny?"

Miss Leslie did not know whether to laugh or to give way to a feeling of nausea. She did neither.

"Can we not find the spring of which you spoke?" she asked. "I am thirsty."

"Well, I guess the fire is about burnt out," assented Blake. "Come on; we'll see."

The cleft now had a far different aspect from what it had presented on their first visit. The largest of the trees, though scorched about the base, still stood with unwithered foliage, little harmed by the fire. But many of their small companions had been killed and partly destroyed by the heat and flames from the burning brush. In places the fire was yet smouldering.

"Navigates" His Farm.

A story which almost parallels that told of Capt. Gray, the sailor-farmer of Toddy Pond, who is said to carry a compass on his plow to run the furrows straight, comes from Cranberry isles. One sea captain, who enjoys the proud distinction of owning one of the very few horses on the island, got alarmed for fear that he would lose his bearings in the recent smoke, and on the veracious accounts of sober citizens took the binnacle from the vessel and strapped it alongside the seat of his wagon, fearing that the weather might become so thick that he would lose his bearings and have to navigate in what was worse than a fog. It is currently reported that he shouts at his team to turn to starboard or port, instead of the more conventional landlubber terms usually employed. — Kennebec (Me.) Journal.

"I love you" lasts longer when it grows from "I like you."

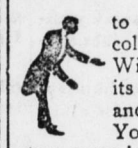
If you are a business man, did you ever think of the field of opportunity that advertising opens to you? There is almost no limit to the possibilities of your business if you study how to turn trade into your store. If you are not getting your share of the business of your community there's a reason. People go where they are attracted—where they know what they can get and how much it is sold for. If you make direct statements in your advertising see to it that you are able to fulfill every promise you make. You will add to your business reputation and hold your customers. It will not cost as much to run your ad in this paper as you think. It is the persistent advertiser who gets there. Have something in the paper every issue, no matter how small. We will be pleased to quote you our advertising rates, particularly on the year's business.

MAKE YOUR APPEAL



to the public through the columns of this paper. With every issue it carries its message into the homes and lives of the people. Your competitor has his store news in this issue. Why don't you have yours? Don't blame the people for flocking to his store. They know what he has.

The Home Paper Gives you the reading matter in which you have the greatest interest—the home news. Its every issue will prove a welcome visitor to every member of the family. It should head your list of newspaper and periodical subscriptions.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

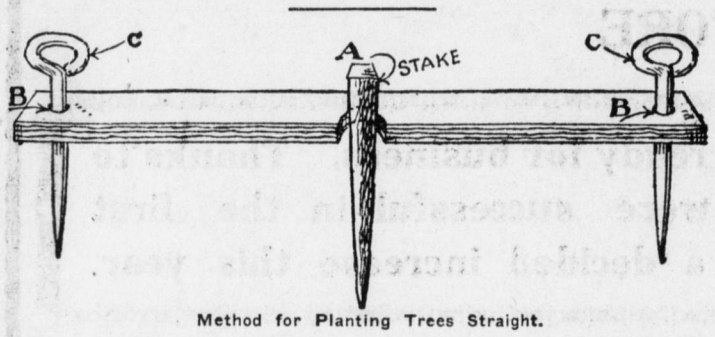
If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.

JOB PRINTING

We can do the finest class of printing, and we can do that class just a little cheaper than the other fellow. Wedding invitations, letter heads, bill heads, sale bills, statements, dodgers, cards, etc., all receive the same careful treatment—just a little better than seems necessary. Prompt delivery always.

PRACTICAL METHOD FOR PLANTING TREES STRAIGHT

Piece of Timber with Notch in Middle is Handy—How to Prune for Best Results—By E. R. Myers.



Method for Planting Trees Straight.

An excellent method for planting trees straight is a follows:

First stake off the ground, then take a piece of inch lumber 1x2 of sufficient length to reach across the hole or excavation; bore a ½-inch hole in each end, cut a notch in the middle to accommodate the tree trunk, A. Make or have the blacksmith make two ⅜-inch iron pins one foot long with ring in one end, C. To use, place the board into a notch A, shove your pins well down in soil through holes B, B. Withdraw one and swing the stick around like a gate, replace the pin in the ground to mark the place, then dig the hole to accommodate tree, swing the stick back in place, replace pin in hole through the stick and into the hole in the ground put the stock of tree into notch A, and fill in the dirt and it will set straight with the other stakes.

As ornamental trees and shrubs are pruned to aid in the production of flowers and foliage, the flowering season necessarily controls the time of pruning.

Many of the early blooming shrubs develop their flowers the year before; with these heavy pruning should be delayed until just after their flowering season, Deutzia, spirea, forsythia and many other popular shurbs are of this character. Soon after their flowering season is over they begin to develop buds for the next year.

Shrubs needing heavy trimming should be pruned in early winter. This will result in larger blooms on the remaining buds. Such plants as the hydrangea and the clematis, which make their flowering buds on shoots grown the same year, should be pruned heavily while dormant, as this will give a greater profusion of shoots on which to develop new buds.

When pruning hardy deciduous flowering shrubs all deadwood should be cut out, straggling branches either shortened or removed and all suckers arising from the roots should be destroyed. Where shrubs are planted in clumps branches should be cut out. It is a good idea to cover the wounds with white lead or grafting wax, as if a stub is left uncovered the healing of the wound will be left until the stub is rooted out and the rotting stub will be a lodging place for bacteria and fungus. Cut the branch off clean and close to the main stem, avoiding any stub, and cover the wound with grafting wax melted and applied hot.

SINGLE CROP FARMING BAD

Specialization Is Profitable in Favorable Seasons, But Often There is Failure.

One-crop farming is in vogue in many agricultural districts. If a manufacturer employs an operator he furnishes him with steady employment at all seasons of the year. The profit of labor is the manufacturer's reward. If only one commercial article is produced the quantity is increased to give the operator constant employment.

The farmer is a producer of agricultural necessities which enter into daily consumption and to concentrate all his energies and capital to produce a single crop leaves him part of the season without employment. The farmer is his own employer and does not have to divide the profits of his products, and therefore should arrange his system of husbandry to insure steady production of some agricultural output that enters into daily consumption.

Unquestionably specialization farming is profitable in favorable seasons, but occasionally there is a partial or total failure of the crop and the farmer wants some reserve product to tide him over a disastrous season of special crop exploitation. In some localities the soil is admirably adapted to potato culture. In another section to onions, and still another to horticulture. When any of these lines of husbandry are followed they pay large profits in favorable seasons. Another class of farmers are interested in wheat or corn production, both of which are profitable branches of agriculture.

The farmer engaged in specialization crops finds himself unemployed a part of the year. If his labors are reasonably rewarded for time devoted to raising and marketing a crop of wheat, corn, potatoes or fruit, it should be his ambition to add to his agricultural operations the production of other things that will pay a profit the balance of the year. To obtain the largest possible recompense from agriculture the farmer should arrange for steady employment the year around.

Special crops can be exploited in conjunction with live stock husbandry. If the farmer raises a crop of clover it leaves the soil in elegant condition for a crop of potatoes, while the clover will make excellent feed for live stock. A crop of potatoes leaves the ground in prime condition for wheat seeded down to clover. Live stock industry in conjunction with special crop production will not only give the farmer remunerative employment at all seasons, but the rotation of crops and feeding live stock will keep up the fertility of the land.

Hog House Floor.

The hog house floor may be cement one part with six to eight parts gravel for a foundation and covered with one inch of a thin mixture containing one part cement with two of clean, sharp sand. Roughen the surface; otherwise it will be slippery.

Value of Ewe.

If a ewe dies her fleece will pay her funeral expenses; if she lives, her spring wool and fall lambs pay double revenue.

GANG PLOW HORSE EVENER

Method of Attaching Six Horses to Farm Implement with Satisfaction — By George Hanne.

Here is a sketch of a six-horse evener for gang plow. As shown, two horses are placed ahead and four abreast. The device is made of a piece of oak plank and a common four-horse evener set on top of it and fastened with strap iron as on a wagon tongue. The holes in the evener are bored at the rate of two to one; two inches to the two horses to one inch to four. The evener is made of sufficient length so that the hole for the two horses comes under the tongue. Then it is connected with a chain to the front evener. This evener can also be used as a five-horse evener by changing the holes in the planks and using three horses instead of four.

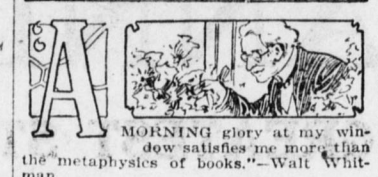
Unique Relationship of Potato.

An authority tells us that the potato has a large and unique relationship. Tobacco, tomatoes, eggplant and peppers belong to the family. Probably that is why the potato bug is so often destructive to these crops. It is asked: How can a potato grow other potato vines from the eyes, since it is not a root, fruit or seed? That is answered by way of illustration: A stem of almost any plant will produce another plant from the place where the leaves come out on it. If one will break off a piece of rose bush and plant it in a favorable place it will produce another rose bush, just as a potato will produce another vine.

Water Shade Trees.

How many people neglect to water their shade trees and flower beds? The editor of this department knows a Texas man who is still gathering fresh roses from his bushes, when all his neighbors, in fact, most of the residents of his town, can only point to their withered, parched bushes and trees. This man, on the hottest day of the year, had his home grown flowers on the table, and they were almost as fresh as flowers would look in early summer. He simply waters his trees and flowers; waters them right, and they return him, for his service, beauty of bloom.

The KITCHEN CABINET



A MORNING glory at my window satisfies me more than the metaphysics of books."—Walt Whitman.

"Order Is Heaven's First Law."

So many mothers find it very hard to teach children to be orderly, put away their belongings and keep their boxes neat. "The way to begin is at the beginning," when they are old enough to have playthings they should be taught to put them away when done with them. A child under two years can learn to do this. As they grow older the habit is formed of having a place for everything and putting it there. The school books and wraps should never be allowed to be dropped anywhere. We all know what a saving of nerves and temper a well-ordered household means. For in the hurry of starting to school there is no time to hunt for mislaid articles.

One mother is trying now to overcome some bad habits already formed by inspecting the belongings of her young hopefuls each day. If she finds everything in order she leaves a small piece of money on the dresser; if it is not there the aforesaid hopeful knows why.

It isn't always easy to put a thing away directly we are done with it. We want to do so many other things, but how glad we are that we may be able to put our hands upon our belongings in a hurry, only those know who have tried both ways.

Years ago there was a story published of a young lady away at a house party for a few weeks. In the party was a young man who was very much interested in this young woman and had made up his mind to ask her to share his salary and travel on his pass, but he happened to pass her room and looking in, saw such disorder and confusion that he changed his mind about wanting her. Whether true or not the moral is plain: "Be orderly."

Seasonable Recipes.

Quinces make such a nice addition to the winter's store that we would not leave them out in the gathering in.

T IS easy in the world to live after the world's opinion; it is easy in solitude to live after our own; but the great man is he who in the midst of the crowd keeps with perfect sweetness the independence of solitude."—Emerson.

Bread Notes.

Remove the loaves at once from the pan when baked, and place in a circulation of air. When cold put into a tin box or stone jar and keep covered closely.

Never wrap bread in a cloth, as it gives the bread an unpleasant taste.

Bread jars should be washed, scalded and sunned each time before using, and oftener in summer.

All dry bread may be used in countless ways in cooking and a crumb should never be wasted.

Bread may be brushed over with milk to make the crust hard.

Keep bread closely covered and in a warm place while rising.

If bread is ever overbaked and the crust needs softening, sponge with sugar and water and wrap closely for a few minutes.

Boiled Rice with Chocolate Sauce.

Here is something that will be new to many, and the combination is good.

Take one cupful of rice, add one and one-half cupfuls of boiling water, cook until the water is absorbed, then add one and one-half cupfuls of milk, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of butter.

Chocolate Sauce.—Make a syrup of one cupful of sugar and one-fourth of a cupful of water. Pour it over one square of melted chocolate, add one teaspoonful of butter and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of vanilla. Serve hot.

To Make Tough Steak Tender.

Lay the steak in a plate in which three tablespoonfuls of oil and one and a half of vinegar have been placed, turn often and let the meat lie at least four hours, before broiling.

Keep a microscope in the kitchen to examine dried fruits, cereals, etc., it will save much waste, as a glance will tell the condition, and anything not good may be at once returned to the grocer.

Beet Relish.

Take one quart of cabbage chopped fine, one quart of boiled beets chopped fine, two cupfuls of sugar, one tablespoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of pepper, one-half teaspoonful of cayenne, one cupful of grated horse radish, with vinegar to mix well. Can cold.

Peach Sherbet.

Boil one quart of water and two cupfuls of sugar together, add one quart of peach juice, the juice of a lemon and the well-beaten whites of two eggs. Freeze as usual.

HAD A BETTER SUGGESTION

And, Coupled with the Unchaining of the Dog, It Was Carried Unanimously.

"Well!" demanded the stern-faced woman as she leaned over the red-handled broom. "What do you want?"

"Lady," said the wayfarer, with the long beard and matted hair, "I'm an actor by profession and in hard luck."

"Well, what have I to do with that?"

"Why—er—I was thinking if you could spare me a quarter to get a shave and a hair cut I could get a job in the role of Virginius."

She eyed him disdainfully.

"Oh, that's a poor excuse," she said, with a curl of her thin lip. "Go up to the town without a shave and a hair cut and get a job in the role of Rip Van Winkle."

And before he could say another word she started to unchain the dog.

CURED ITCHING HUMOR.

Big, Painful Swellings Broke and Did Not Heal—Suffered 3 Years.

Tortures Yield to Cuticura.

"Little black swellings were scattered over my face and neck and they would leave little black scars that would itch so I couldn't keep from scratching them. Larger swellings would appear and my clothes would stick to the sores. I went to a doctor, but the trouble only got worse. By this time it was all over my arms and the upper part of my body in swellings as large as a dollar. It was so painful that I could not bear to lie on my back. The second doctor stopped the swellings, but when they broke the places would not heal. I bought a set of the Cuticura Remedies and in less than a week some of the places were nearly well. I continued until I had used three sets, and now I am sound and well. The disease lasted three years. O. L. Wilson, Puryear, Tenn., Feb. 8, 1908."

Try This in November.

Thousands upon thousands of families who have not been regular eaters of Quaker Oats will begin on the first of November and eat Quaker Oats once or twice every day for thirty days of this month; the result in good health and more strength and vigor will mean that every other month in the year will find them doing the same thing.

Try it! Serve Quaker Oats plentifully and frequently for the thirty days of November and leave off a corresponding amount of meat and greasy foods. You'll get more health, more vigor and strength than you ever got in thirty days of any other kind of eating.

While you are trying this see that the children get a full share.

Quaker Oats is packed in regular size packages and large size family packages.

Object of Increased Solicitude.

"There never was a time when the farmer was so highly considered as he is to-day," said the gentle jollier.

"That's right," answered Mr. Corntossel; "they're making a heap o' fuss over us agricultural folks. You seen crops has been kind o' good lately. In addition to votes we've got a little spare change that's worth lookin' after."—Washington Star.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

The first hospital is conducted by the department of war, the second by the United States public health and marine hospital service and the latter by the navy department.

A Resemblance.

Canon Hensley Henson, at a dinner in New Haven during his Yale lectures, condemned the ugliness of the English archbishop's attire.

"One of our archbishops," he said, "preached in a Kansas church in his panoply of knee breeches, gaiters and apron, and the leading paper of the town concluded an admiral report of his sermon with the words:

"'The archbishop wore Highland dress.'"

AFTER SUFFERING ONE YEAR

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Milwaukee, Wis. — "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman, and I would like to tell the whole world of it. I suffered from female trouble and fearful pains in my back. I had the best doctors and they all decided that I had a tumor in addition to my female trouble, and advised an operation. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman and I have no more backache. I hope I can help others by telling them what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me." — MRS. EMMA IMSE, 833 First St., Milwaukee, Wis.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women after all other means have failed, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is free.

Breezy County News

FIRST FORK

Following is a list of bears killed in Oct. in the lower end of the county, as far as I have been able to learn: C. E. Logue, six, two alive; Fred Caldwell, one alive; Bert Nelson, one alive; M. F. Wykoff, one; Jake Smith, two; Wm. Miller, two; Anson Logue, two; Mr. Maxwell, two, one weighed 304 pounds; Jas. Batchelder, two in one day; Mr. Pitts, three; Seth Nelson, six; ——Peasley, one; Frank Miller, one; making a total of 30. With what have been killed in other parts of the county, it will bring the total to between 30 and 40, almost equaling the total for the whole season of 1908, which I believe was 40. Thoy have commenced catching bear in November, already down this way. Bird hunters are making short visits in this section owing to the scarcity of birds.

There are the most wild grapes, ever, in the woods but very few pheasants to feed off of them.

The heavy freeze of Friday night caught a good many potatoes in the ground, not dug.

Mrs. Stella Card, of Austin, was visiting her aunt. Mrs. R. M. Williams, the last of the week.

The teachers returned from Institute, Friday and Saturday, and are ready for business again this morning.

In my last items, it should have read Mrs. Fred Logue, of Thunder, Idaho, instead of Mrs. Frank Logue.

Mrs. R. M. Williams was visiting at Israel Bailey's, at Sinnamahoning one day last week.

Mrs. Mina Logue and daughter Louisa were visiting her parents on Bennetts Branch over Sunday.

Somebody borrowed (?) two or three of Chance Logue's traps out on the mountain and his catch for Nov. may not be so large in consequence.

SINNAMAHONING.

Well this town is full of bear hunters and bear stories are all the go. A good many are poking it at Jim. Batchelder for being behind, but he will be up even with the best of them in the close up of the season. Jim. was building himselt a new house this fall and did not get into the first run of bears like the rest of the trappers. It made him rather nervous to hear some of the big catches so early in the season. here are some of them: One mighty brought in a bear before breakfast and another before dinner the first day of bear season; another got two before ten o'clock; one went out to set his traps and forgot his bait; he had a slice of bread and butter with currant jelly on and after he had eaten it he wiped his mustache on a few leaves and when he came back in about an hour a bear had eaten up all the leaves around and was in the trap; the firft day of October another was so anxious he went out without his breakfast and found an old mother bear in his trap and her little cubs up a tree He shot the little ones, the biggest weighed 15 pounds and made the report that he had four bear hanging up at one time; another went out and found a bear in his trap and came home to get a camera to take a snap shot and when he got back the bear had gone, got tired of waiting or did not want his picture taken; another report that Charley Meixel had killed a bear that attacked him at the powder works that weighed 700 pounds. All this time Batchelder was on nettles because he could not get after the bruins. But he started out on the 15th and on the 25th captured two fine bear and several coon and possums and ever since has been living on the top shelf, possum and sweet potatoes one day and roost coon the next. Jim, doesn't hunt on Sundays either. Willie Smith and Orlie Walker went up with Jim. the day he got his bears and killed one of them themselves. Willie said his knees were so week after he had killed the bear that he could hardly stand. Wilbur Peasley has given up trapping since he failed to get a snap shot of the one that got away, he is afraid it is watching for him. Don't worry about Jim. neighbor trappers and hunters, he will come out all right at the finish.
